'55 SCHOOL OUTLOOK; IS IT BRIGHTER?

After almost a decade of struggle, the warborn school porblem is still with us, say the editors of Changing Times, The Kiplinger Magazine.

In some areas there has been improvement. In other areas crises impend. Here is the year's outlook:

Faster than facilities can be built or teachers trained, prospective pupils arrive—in fact, a new baby is born every eight seconds. That is the nub of the school problem. This year the added load on the elementary schools will be 1,200,000 over last year's enrollment.

In many parts of the country instruction will be on a made-do basis. Close to 1,000,000 grade schoolers will get only half-day educations. Most of the others will sit in crowded schoolrooms — nearly two out of three in classes larger than the desirable size, which is 30 pupils. About 35,000 school houses are still antiquated, one-teacher buildings.

New teachers going into grade schools, while generally well trained are hardly numerous enough to replace those who quit teaching last year. Only a few thousand extras are available to handle the new pupils and to replace temporary teachers.

To get more teachers, more college graduates with teaching degrees must be induced into the schools. Only 79 per cent of the trained elementary school teachers and 56 per cent of trained high school teachers now, actually take teaching jobs. Another approach is to inveigle former teachers to come back to the classrooms.

Although 60,000 new schoolrooms have been added, the country needs more than this number each year for at least the next five years, or the "gain" will be quickly wiped out.

High schools will feel the first pressures of heavy enrollments this year, when 250,000 additional students register. Spectacular increases in enrollment will come in another two or three years. But teacher supply is way down. Trained high school teachers graduating from college this year are 41 per cent fewer than in 1950.

The weak spot in instruction is science. About half the high schools provide little or no instruction in chemistry, physics and advanced mathematics.

High schools badly need 6,000 additional science teachers right now, but only 2,000 new ones are available for this year. This bodes no good for the nation's future. Without high school preparation students will not be able to go on to advanced training in the fields of chemistry, electronics and atomic energy.

Colleges have a few years before the rush hits. This fall's enrollment will be 2,591,000, or 113,000 over last year's. About a third will be girls, bent or degree or husband.

The main need for curing our school problem is money. For every new pupil in public school, taxpayers must shell out an average of $250.62 for current expenses and $80.52 for buildings, books, etc. As more teachers are added, and more schools built, the figures will keep rising. As for colleges, half now operate in the red. Tuition fees at many schools are sky high (as much as $1,300 a year). Corporations gave $70,000,000 last year to help out, but high tuition and donations are not enough.

RID FLOCK OF PARASITES

Few poultrymen realize how much damage external parasites do in their flocks each year.

Many are not aware that these parasites exist in their houses, on the litter, in the cracks and crevices of the roosts, and on the birds themselves. These parasites (who live off the blood of the bird) actually cost United States poultry raisers around $80 each year. This is the figure set by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The USDA reports that this big loss is actually 7% of the total potential value of all the poultry raised each year in this country.

It's been reported that hens laid 18 more eggs in an 11-month period when they were free of lice compared with hens that were infested with lice. This increase in egg production is worth more than the cost of controlling these enemies of the birds.

There are many kinds of external parasites that attack your poultry. Most of them have to have blood to live. All of them either live on the chickens or live somewhere on the premises and attack the chickens when they go to roost.

Lice, fleas, bedbugs, mites and ticks are the principal parasites that are responsible for this big loss to poultrymen. These enemies of your birds don't just happen to be in your flock. All of them are introduced from outside the flock. They represent a slip-up in control practices. Once in the flock, they attack without your knowledge. They may be at work for sometime without your knowing it.

Check the hens for lice. They usually pick at their feathers, have a run-down appearance and the feathers may be ruffled and unkept. If there's a lot of the lice, ticks, and mites on your layers, they may make the hens irritable, may even go so far as to stop egg production completely. This has actually happened in cases where a heavy infestation was found in a flock.

Formerly, you were limited in your control of these parasites. But not today. Modern insecticides can practically rid your flock of all major parasites. Two things should be done. Clean up the premises, check your birds every 30 days to see if they are infested with these parasites. If they are, get a spray that gets into the corners, joints of the house, and stays long enough to kill them. The vapor from good sprays does the trick here.

Use an application on the roosts of the laying house, too. Apply it before the birds go to roost. The vapor will get to the lice and mites on the birds. The use of this two-fold program will take care of all the major parasites.

A backlog of United States Savings Bonds gives you that cool, relaxed feeling—even in the heat of summer.

SAILFISH RECORD AT MYRTLE BEACH

Myrtle Beach, S. C.—A seven-foot eight inch sailfish was brought to Little River fishing center Monday. The long swordlike and edible billfish is reported to be the largest ever brought in to Carolina waters. Weighing 68½ pounds, this fighting game fish was landed by Toby Ward, Greensboro, N. C., while trolling from "Louisann." Captain Bill Tom, skipper of the craft, instructed the huge fish put up a struggle that Ward spent one hour and twenty minutes winning the battle. Also in the party were R. B. Hall of Greenville, N. C., Howard Mabry, of Raleigh, N. C., and Ed Boyd, of Myrtle Beach.

On the same day a party aboard "Pat" Bellamy's "El Selma" landed in a 27 pound barracuda while trolling twenty-five miles off shore. This group consisted of Ben Golightly, Ed Ferguson, Jr., Buford, Tom Hartis, and Charles Daughtery.

Also on Saturday, Captain Jack High, with a group from Charlotte, N. C., brought in 250 dolphin, and was the first substantial catch of this variety.

Trolling boats continued to land in unusually large catches of dolphin mackerel. During the week several captains reported catches of 300 to 450 per boat. Channel bass deep sea fishing is also reported good by the Little River captains.

The show is being sponsored by four civic clubs, the Civitan, Kiwanis, Lions, Pilots and Rotary, and the woman's auxiliary of the Ocean View Memorial Hospital.

Proceeds from the show will go to the building fund of the hospital.

There will be 36 various classes in the show, with hunters and walking horses added this year.

A Simple Easy Way To Deposit By Mail

We like to have all our depositors come into the bank personally as often as they can, but many find it difficult to call at the bank every time they wish to make a deposit.

To make it convenient and easy for such depositors to do their banking by mail, we have devised a new and simple method which makes it easy for you to make deposits by mail at any time.

It is only necessary to have one of our bank-by-mail envelopes to make use of this handy system. These envelopes combine a deposit slip, a mail-deposit receipt and a self-addressed envelope in one complete unit. The bank will gladly supply these envelopes without cost to you.

There is nothing complicated about it. You simply fill out the deposit slip on the envelope flap in the usual manner and write your name and address on the receipt form. You then endorse your checks payable to this bank. Place them in the envelope with the deposit slip and receipt form — seal, and mail.

The bank will mail back to you immediately the receipt for your deposit. A new deposit slip envelope for your next deposit by mail will be sent with your receipt. These receipts should be checked against your regular monthly statement and then destroyed.

With this handy method, banking by mail is as safe and convenient as paying bills by check through the mail.

Perhaps you have never banked by mail before. Try it out with this new envelope and see how easily the whole plan works. It is not necessary to notify us in advance that you wish to use this plan. Simply send in your first deposit and this convenient plan starts working for you automatically.

THIS IS JUST ANOTHER WAY IN WHICH THIS BANK IS ENDEAVORING TO BRING EVERY MODERN BANKING FACILITY TO ITS DEPOSITORS
